

The advancement of technology is not meant solely for those in positions of power, but for an entire society. By denying the public rights to digital television devices because of possible misuse completely crosses the bounds of fair use. Please let our digitally driven society thrive--do not smolder us into the dust out of fear.